HARDWARE MEN DISCUSS LIVE BUSINESS METHODS

Addresses Made by Merchants Who Are Attending the State Convention Here.

JOBBERS MAKE DISPLAY

Exhibit of Stock at Hotel Includes Penknives and Full-Sized Buggies.

Hundreds of placards and posters of variegated colors, hung throughout the corridors of the Denison Hotel, betoken that the Indiana Hardware Dealers are here for their fifth annual convention.

The second floor of the hotel has been converted into booths. Here can be found almost everything in the hardware line from a penkuife to a buggy. There are cook stoves in abundance, some of them in operation; all kinds of cutlery, paints, farming implements, tinware, silverware, lamps, ranges, furnaces and a hundred and one other things. Each exhibitor has several boxes of cigars on "tap." There are many companies from outside the State displaying their stocks.

The opening of the convention yesterday was devoted almost entirely to addresses. The most interesting was that of A. F. Nine Bids Are Rejected Pending Sheldon, of Chicago, who spoke on "The cience of Salesmanship." Five-minute talks were made by traveling men and manufacturers on "Shop Talk and Business Pointers." President Edward M. Bush, of Evansville, appointed chairmen of committees as folsame quality as ours at prices as low as lows: A. H. Burkert, of Gosport, doorkeeper; J. A. Fulton, of Portland, resolutions; We are confident that our combination of J. D. Du Prez. of Shelbyville, auditing; high quality and low prices cannot be George D. Windland, of Hope, grievances; A. N. Shideler, of South Bend, insurance. To-day's session will be a continuation o addresses and discussions. The subject that | day to refer the whole matter back to the will attract the most interest will be "Better Freight Transportation," which the Indiana grain dealers will present. The hardware dealers expect to take action at this convention to secure better freight rates. o-day, as will the report of the delegate o the national convention, Papers will be read by A. N. Shideler, J.

A. Shapker, of Mount Vernon; L. C. Bar-tholomew, of Michigan City; C. A. Ellis, of Carlisle, and T. J. Lindley, of Jeffersonville. The delegates will be given a banquet at the Hotel English to-night by local jobbers and manufacturers. The convention will end to-morrow when routine business will be disposed of and officers elected.

Ster.ographers employed by various labor organizations here, including the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, the Teamsters' International Union, the Typographical Union, the United Mine Workers and the Journeyman Barbers' International Union, met last night in the State Life building and perfected an organization. About twenty-five stenographers were present, of whom two-thirds were young women. Enough names were enrolled upon the membership list to secure a charter from the American Federation of Labor. Enthusiasm of the founders of the new union assure its success. Speeches were made by the young women as well as the young men, and all were heartily in favor of the formation of the union Short speeches indorsing the new union were also made by President Huber, Secretary Duffy and Thomas Neal, of the carpenters, and Secretary Turley and Editor Dwyer, of the teamsters. As soon as a charter is received from the F. of L., which will be in about a week, the organization will be made permanent. It is to be known as the Indianapolis Association of Stenographers, Membership will be open to all stenographers of the city. Over 2,000 are employed here. Many inquiries have already been received by those in charge and prospects point to one of the largest unions of the city.
